LETTER FROM THE DUKE OF NEWCASTLE.

Toroxro, sept. 2, 1890.

The reception given to the Prince last evening by the numbers of the Law Society of Upper Canada, at October Hall, was a most recherché affair. The Prince rrived at half-past nine. The barristers received him remed in full robes, and the Hon. John Hilliard Came drossed in full robes, and the Hon. John Hilliard Cameron, secretary of the Law Society, and also Grand Master of the Orangemen, read an address, to which the Prince made a suitable regig.

Prominent among the barristers was a full blooded African, usmed Sutherland, who graduated at Kings Odlege here, and occupies a respectable position at the bar. He figured quite conspicuously last evening. One notices many cases in this part of Canada of intermarriages between whites and blacks, but here in Toronto most people have the American produdes against amalgamation.

ave the American prejudice against amalgamation.

The Prince was then made a barrister by signing name to the Barrister's roll and rolls of Common Plea and Queen's Bench. He signed simply " Albert Edward'

Dancing was then begun, and the Prince remained till Ewelve o'click.

Great feeling is excited among interested parties because dancing was allowed, as this was contrary to agreement, and it is feared will spoil the effect of the citizens' grand ball of Tuesday next. Much comment was also made on the prominent part Cameron took in the affair. He threatened to resign if the Orangemen persisted in their conduct, and if had done so in the first place much present difficulty might have been avoided, as he maintend them to remestability who have been closed and the latest them. tined them in respectability by his position and talents. This morning the Prince went to church, and by cir

This morning the Prince went to church, and by cir-cumstances attending his going there the fire of religious and political fanaticism was again fanned into a fame. Orowds of people lined King street, which is the most direct route to the cathedral, to see him pass. In this street many lofty, beautiful arches are erected, among which is that of the Free Masons, with its towers mong which is that of the Free mane, which is tweeter-er-eminent for graceful form and appropriate devices. On the next block below is the illustrious Orange arch thich caused all this trouble, for Catholics did not object ange parade. It is very large, built of wood o imitate granite, and has the same devices both es. Pull length portraits of the Queen and Prince Albert orn its sides. In the tower above is a portrait of King Above are the words :- "These we maintain are mottoes:-"Our Glorious Constitution," and ome, Albert, Prince of Wales." These were all the ecorations on the arch this morning, except a few ban-ners and shields of usual English style. Around this arch, ander which the Prince would have to pass if he came colock, but drove to church by a roundabout way, thus wolding this arch. They entered church so quickly that aded it off, informing the crowd that the route was the sait of design, not accisent. Feeling then seemed most too deep for utterance, and the Duke of Newstie, the Governor General, and even the Prince, were reed in choicest Billingsgate. Inside the church peoble her was a supplied to the church peoble and the church people and royal party, and a disposition to groun at the Duke was very evident. The services proceeded as usual, and at the close the Prince entered his carriage and drove off very quickly, taking another roundabout way to avoid the arch, which is only across the street from the church. ions hirsed as the party passed, and some, very ited, shouled, 'Tear down the arch,' and made cited, shouled, 'Pear down to area,' setration for that purpose. The police roughly back the crowd and order was at length restored, crowd did not disperse. Soon after several men mounted the arch and suspended five of the exious, banners, bearing the portrait of King and one of the leading Orangemen of the city ordered the Danners down, and attempted to ascend to lower them, but was hooted, pulled from his footing, and the ladder might become more general, as it is said on good ac-ority that fifteen bundred Roman Catholics have for med emselves into a society and go armed in case of an opeal to brute force. Manager Shanly, of the Grand unk Bailroad, declares that he will produce force choogh to sweep the streets of Orangemen in a moment, if any riot is attempted. Grand Master Cameron declares the will trample his Orange robe under his feet if a riot the difficulties between the Mayor and the Duke are adjusted, and the Mayor will be presented to the Prince to Just before dusk this evening, the Duke of Newcastle and the Governor General took a walk out to see the city. They were dressed in plain clothes, and were not recognized by the people until upon their return from the walk, and were sgain near the governmen house. As soon as word passed who they were, a crowd of about a thousand persons chased them down the street, booting, yelling, and shouting all kinds of opprobrious epithets. The Duke and Governor General were pushed violently against the stone gate posts of the Government House as they were striving to enter, and the Governor was considerably bruised about the arms and shoulders. After a parting cheer the mob then dis-persed. The city is quiet to night, with but few people in the streets or churches, but extra policemen have been appointed and sentinels have been doubled at Governmeeting to arrange matters this evening, but this is not true. In a former despatch I stated that the Mayor was trud. In a former despatch I stated that the Mayor was to be presented to the Prince to morrow. This is now pronounced doubtful, but the former statement came from the Mayor himself.

Besides recolving an address from Mr. Cameron, the Orange Grand Master, at the barristers' reception last evening, the Prince opened the ball with Mrs. Cameron, causing some remark thereby.
The Prince was taken out of church to day by the perintendent Grant for a special train to and from Col-lingwood to-morrow, to leave at eight o'clock in the morning and reach here again at seven in the evening. This scarcely looks like a resolve to leave the eigh also Increasing Trade with China and Brazil.

Launch of the First Steamboat Built is America for Brazil-Remarks of the Brazilian Minister-Launch of a Ves-sel for the China Trade-Incidents, &c.

On Saturday was launched, from the shippard of Measura.
Webb & Bell, at Greenpoint, the first steamboat ever built in the United States for the empire of Brazil. It is appropriately called the Primeira (first), and is one of appropriately called the remeira (urse), and is one on three which are intended for the use of our southern im-perial neighbor, and designed to run on the bay of Rio as ferry boats. They are the property of a company in Rio, organized by Dr. Rainey, of this city, a gentleman of great energy and enterprise. The launch was original appointed to take place on Friday, the 7th, the annive prejudice amongst scalaring mon, who have been borror of that particular day of the week, it was post horror of that particular day of the week, it was postponed till the next day.

The weather was very warm and fine, though a few dark clouds hovered with threatening looks, and at one time gave tangible evidence of their presence by sprinkling the little group of spectators with a few heavy drops. They fleated away, however, and the sun once more bathed the quict scene in warmth and light. Two o'clock was the appointed time, but some delay occurred, and it passed, still leaving the Primeirs immovable on her stocks. Meanwhile every part of the monstrous wooden sautilus underweat a critical examination, which wooden nautilus underwent a critical examination, which was highly estisfactory to such of her visiters as were posted in shipbuilding. The arrival of a bevy of ladies, whose presence was as agreeable as it was unexpected in a dirty, unsheltered and uninviting ship yard, was apparently the signal for farce poundings and hammerings in all directions, which notified us of the approach of the grand moment. Athletic men swung ponderous hammers and battered obstinate wedges as if they meant to fix them all the tighter. As length, at about three o'clock, everything being ready, the Hon. Mr. Lisboa, of Washington, Brazilian Minister to the United Staten, by whom the Primeirs was to have the honor of being christened, stepped on board, and after the most ted States, by whom the Primeirs was to have the honor of being christened, stepped on board, and after the most careful and explicit directions were given as to how, when and where the jbaptismal bottle of "green seal" was to be oblated, the signal was given. Slam bang went the great sledge hammers, the supports fell from her sides, and the Primeira, with the imperial flag of Brazil futtering above her broad deck, glided as gracefully and winsomely into the tide as if ahe were rushing into a

sch the party assembled in the office

After the launch the party assembled in the office of Messrs. Webb & Bell, where Dr. Rainsy had provided those little creature comforts which, after all, are no insignificant feature in celebrations of any kind. Green seal and sandwiches were in abundance, and suffered awfully. As was becoming to the occasion, toasts were proposed in an informal manner, but with an much sincerity and cordiality as if it had been a regular set dinner at the Astor or Metropolitan.

Mr. Lubon proposed, in very happy terms, the health of the President of the United States. He regarded this event of the launch of the first steambout for Brazil as a beginning to drawing still closer the bonds of friendship and commerce with that wast empire, and was gist that the United States had at inst entered the lists in competition with other countries in this important branch of businers and industry. He considered it as event of no ardinary interest to Americans and Brazilians. The empire was in a fourthing condition. Within the last few years she had made vast strides under the administration of her present illustrious and enlightened Emperor, and it was but right, and he was proud to see, that this great country of confederated States would aid her to still greater prosperity.

Mr. Lisboa's remarks were warmly applanded. Col. Parks proposed the health of his Majesty the Emperor of Brazil, and drew a glowing picture of his liberality and enlightenment. He ventured to assert that there was no monarch upon any throne in the world whose character was more pure, whose conduct and example were more virtuous, and whose love for his country and anxiety for her welfare and advancement were more exalted.

The health of Dr. Rainey was proposed, to which that gentleman returned thanks in a few brief and modest remarks.

The health of the Chevaller d'Aguiar was also given until the cagines are put in, when they will be hauled out, given an additional thread of cakum and heavily coppered. There will be, thus, a perfect certainty of their

the fourth steamer which Mr. Collyer has built to navigate the waters of the Chinese empire, and there is no doubt but the favorable impression which has been made on the native traders by their performance will conduce to the forwarding of many orders for similar vessals to the United States." This prediction has been verified by the present orders.

The Fire Eart has been constructed of the best materials, which have been put together in a masterly manner. The model appears to be faultiess, and if we may judge of her speed by the velocity with which she went through the water on launching, she will equal any of her building the water on launching, she will equal any of her building the water on launching, the will equal any of her building the water on launching, the will equal any of her building the water on launching, the will equal any of her building the water on launching, the will equal any of her building the water on launching the water to be furnished by the Neptune Iron Works.

Operatic and Dramatic Matters. The opera managers took the field early in the season in order to secure their share of the "Southern trade, of which we hear so much among the politicians. Mr Strakosch evidently believes in making hay while the sun shines, as he gave last week no less than five per formances, namely: on Monday, "La Sonnambula;" o Wednesday, "Poliuto;" on Thursday, "Lucia di Lamme " on Friday, "Trovatore;" Saturday afternoonambula." Adelina Patti sang in the "Sonnamb a" and "Lucia" more charmingly than ever. Madam Cortest gained many new admirers in the "Trovatore' and the "Polinto;" while Musiani, who wa compelled, in consequence of the illness of Brignell, to bear the heavier portion of the tenor's burthen, reaped fresh laurels in the rôle of Manrico, His singing of the finale of the third act, a very severe test for the strongest voice, made a positive furer. On Saturday Brignell made his rentrice, singing

On this evening the "Barber of Seville," with Adelini Patti, Brignoli and Amodio, and E. Barili, will be given. On to morrow Cortesi and Musiani appear in the "Tra-cma" (a bet) will be produced about the 15th of October. It is in three acts, and has been written expressly for Adelina Patti, Signor Brignoli, Ferri, E. Barili and Susini who will sing the principal rôles.

Mr. Servadio is about to make a provincial tour to Bos ton and elsewhere. His complete troupe will include Madame Cortesi and Mile. Gardon, prime donne, soprani Mile. Sanchioli, prima donna, mezzo soprano; tenors, Musi ani and Tamaro; baritones, the brothers Amodio. Madame Fabbri will make her rentrés at the Academi

The theatres are all getting ready for a prosperous au tumn campaign. The business at Wallack's last week with Miss Jane Coombs, and at the Winter Garden, where Professor Anderson closed a triumphal cannalin, and has departed like another Alexander, sighing for new worlds to conquer, proved very plainly that a grand rush might be expected when the regular season set in. Con-sequently, during this week, all the theatres will open theatre will be opened this evening. Miss Keene begins theatre will be opened this evening. Muss Keene begins with a new piece, announced as anjoriginal drama/jounded on "La Petite Pologne," a play which was produced at the Gaité theatre, last June, and made what the French call a veritable success. The English author is Mr. De Walden, a clever dramatist, who has doubtless made the best possible use of the very striking incidents upon which the author of "La Petite Pologne" has constructed a most interesting plot. Miss Keene, Miss Polly Marshall, Mrs. Allen, Messra. Couldock, Daly, Burnett and T. B. Johnston play the principal characters in the new viece.

Williams is for three weeks.

The present is the very last week of Nizon's Royal Ampitheatre, at Niblo's Garden. The company gives way to the dramatic season, which is to be commenced next Monday, with Mr. Forrest as the star. Amateur gymnasts will find some very interesting information in Mr. Nizon's announcements.

Mr. Wallack announces that his theatre will be opened for the season on Thursday next. His company includes all the old favorites and some important additions. The opening piece will be an entirely new version of Soribe's "Battaulle des Dames."
